Welcome Message

Dear Colleagues,

Are you excited for BOPA'S 20th Anniversary Symposium in October? I know I am.

The programme is shaping up nicely, it's a very interesting time in cancer so lots of new developments, both clinical and political to look forward to learning about.

The venue at Glasgow SEC is one of BOPA's favourites, we are always guaranteed a warm welcome in Glasgow and I know from past experience that the entertainment in the evenings will be top class, no doubt I'll be as enthusiastic but hopeless as ever at the ceilidh.

One thing to draw your attention to is that we have recognised that NHS budgets are tighter than ever and individual sponsorship is increasingly difficult to be able to take, so the committee has worked hard to give BOPA members a MASSIVE 50% reduction in conference fee's. Instead of £354 it is only £177 if booked by Friday 18th August. As usual we have preferential rates at some lovely hotels, but for those on a tighter budget there are lots of options if you want to independently find a hotel room on Trip Advisor etc, it may not be as nice as the conference hotel, but you'll not be spending a lot of time there as we are sure to keep you busy.

Looking forward to seeing you all there, keep an eye out for monthly updates and we'll be encouraging you all to send in your favourite BOPA memories from over the years.

With best wishes,

Steve Williamson, BOPA chair

20 YEARS
ANNIVERSARY

The British Oncology Pharmacy Association is proud to celebrate their 20th Annual Symposium for cancer care pharmacy

The Venue

We are delighted to be holding the 20th Annual BOPA Symposium at the Scottish Events Campus (SEC), Glasgow.

The SEC is Scotland's largest exhibition centre, located in the district of Finnieston on the north bank of the River Clyde, Glasgow. Voted the 'World's Friendliest City' in a 2014 Rough Guide poll.

Glasgow also has a phenomenally vibrant arts scene for a city of its size. Indeed, some say the city's size – big enough to be a city, small enough to be a village – is what makes it so unique.
